

OPM LICENSING

Current

Proposed

Effects of Change

1. The QA exam and experience requirement would be comparable to the current QP exam and experience requirement.
2. All current QPs, whether active or inactive, would be considered QAs. Those who are currently active QPs would have to also register as a QP.
3. Registering as a QP would involve submitting a form to OPM and paying a small fee. A person would have to be a QA in order to register as a QP. There would be no additional testing or experience requirement to register as a QP.
4. Because a QP would also be a QA (certified qualified applicator), it would be clear that a QP would not also need the standard licensed applicator/certified applicator license.
