Tucson-Based Western Meat is Recalling Ground Beef

Tucson-based Western Meat Company is recalling ground beef sold between January 1, 2014 and April 30, 2015 due to a possible E. coli 0157:H7 health risk.

This is a Class II recall because it is a health hazard situation where there is a remote probability of adverse health consequences from the use of the product.

Only 5 and 10 pound bulk packages of ground beef are affected.

These products were sold to limited customers in Tucson, AZ.

If you have this meat in your freezer or refrigerator, make a note of how much you have and destroy it or return it to Western Meat for reimbursement.

Look for the image below on the package.

If you have questions, contact Sonny Jocic at Western Meat (520) 327-1868.
